

WESTCOMBE PLACE

— Northleach —

homes built with passion

We are delighted to present to you our exclusive boutique development, Westcombe Place. As a family business we genuinely care about our customers and the way they want to live. That's why we chose to work with award winning architects Nash Partnership to design our development in the beautiful Cotswold town of Northleach. After thorough contemplation and meticulous reflection we have created 5 beautifully unique Cotswold homes with stunning views across the shallow Leach Valley.

Being a family housebuilder our aim is to deliver something different, something better. Spacious homes that allow you to live the way you want, rooms that make you smile when you walk in and features that make life that little bit more enjoyable. Not forgetting the generous gardens where you can relax, entertain and play. We create homes that we ourselves want to live in, adding thoughtful touches that others don't. Building on our experience we continuously innovate to deliver homes that embrace modern living.

We have carefully considered the mix of materials, drawing inspiration from the region's mesmerising countryside and inspiring architecture. Westcombe Place is traditional in style but with exciting and contemporary internal layouts and specifications. We source high quality materials that sit comfortably in their surroundings and with superior craftsmanship, these homes will be a joy to live in for years to come.

We hope you love these homes as much as we have enjoyed creating them. If you decide to purchase a Freeman Home we look forward to welcoming you into our family.

Joint Chief Executive

how are freeman homes different?

With a heritage of over 50 years, Freeman Homes is part of the MF Freeman Group of Companies. A second generation family business based in the heart of the Forest of Dean, our people are what makes us great and together we strive to deliver homes that are different to other housebuilders, embracing change and innovation.

We are fanatical about creating great places to live. Location is of paramount importance. We choose places we love and places our customers will enjoy living. Space, style, orientation and design are all critical to your decision making process and have been meticulously considered throughout the design process. Having our own contracting division means we don't have to rely on third parties, ensuring our own exacting standards. Specification and storage are key to our designs and we know from previous customers that we are head and shoulders above the rest.

The qualities that make Freeman Homes different mean that you can choose a new home with complete confidence.

perfectly located

The delightful town of Northleach is often described as the hidden secret of the Cotswolds. One of the smaller traditional Cotswold market towns.

The picturesque and completely unspoilt town has a small collection of independent shops and wonderful places to eat and drink whilst soaking up the warm and friendly atmosphere.

Northleach is easily accessible from Cheltenham, Cirencester and Oxford making it the perfect place to live for commuting.

undeniably beautiful

Westcombe Place is positioned on the eastern fringe of Northleach in the undeniably beautiful Cotswold countryside, within easy walking distance of the town centre. This boutique development comprises five exclusive detached Cotswold properties off a private drive.

Designed to sit comfortably within the traditional market town surroundings these homes feature Cotswold stone, slate roofs and timber windows that echo the region's architecture.

From acquiring sites in the right locations to choosing the best architects to work with, from appointing craftsmen who love what they do to designing stylish homes, quality is everything.

designed for living

These luxury homes boast spacious layouts that have been designed for a changing family dynamic as well as entertaining.

All of these exceptional quality properties have spacious, thoughtful and well planned living spaces that are ideal for modern family living – there are spaces to relax, to work, to entertain and to just live everyday life.

flexible spaces

On the ground floors particularly, we have exercised flexibility in the relationship between the kitchen and its primary functions. By using broken plan living we allow the rooms to all flow together in open plan form or to be closed down into separate spaces if you wish.

Flexible living lets you decide how you wish to live in the space.

Flexible living allows for your lifestyle & a changing family dynamic.

capturing history

We are always interested to learn about the history of our sites and talk to local people about interesting stories, capturing memoirs wherever we can.

The site on which The Westwoods and Westcombe Place now stand was formerly the playing fields of the Westwoods School. The school, its teachers and pupils have been a large part of so many local peoples lives. To keep these memories alive we have named the roads after some well loved local people and places.

Rixon Road

The main road into The Westwoods is called Rixon Road named after one of the old houses at Westwoods Grammar School. The school houses were called Westwood, Bradley and Rixon. William Augustus Rixon (1858 – 1948) was a renowned artist, landowner and Sheriff of Gloucestershire. In 1925 he painted in oils ‘A View of Northleach’ that depicts the market town as seen across fields scattered with haystacks with the famous wool church of St Peter and St Paul standing proud in the distance.

Bradley Drive

The private road to the south of the development has been named Bradley Drive, after James Bradley (1693 – 1762).

James Bradley, third son of William, a Steward on the Sherborne Estate was educated at Northleach Grammar School. Bradley graduated from Balliol College, Oxford with an MA in 1717. Bradley proved to be the finest astronomer in Europe. He discovered the aberration of light (the first proof that the Earth was in motion), the nutation of the Earth’s axis, resolved the precession and was honoured by every major scientific society in Europe, including France, Russia, Prussia and Italy.

At Oxford he was Savilian Professor of Astronomy from 1722 and Lecturer in Experimental Philosophy. He was the Third Astronomer Royal, a member of the Board of Longitude and a member of the Council of the Royal Society.

He was widely admired, Newton called him the finest astronomer in Europe, but he was also greatly liked, for he was a gentle, kindly man who remained modest all of his life.

Potter Walk

The path and walkway to the northern edge of The Westwoods has been named Potter Walk after Wilfred Potter (1922 – 2008) a much loved and respected teacher who was heavily involved in the local community. Wilfred was a great cricket enthusiast, animal lover, keen choir member and pianist, often to be heard playing at night. A classics graduate from Worcester College, Oxford, he had a career as a Latin teacher. Following so many lovely stories and memories recalled about Wilfred Potter it seemed only too fitting to name one of the new roads after him.

“Wilf Potter, a unique & charismatic man who was loved by so many.”
